SUMMARY

I am hard worker with a positive attitude and wide range of working experience from military field to print shops. I am athletic and fast learner and adapt well in different situations.

I would not limit any fields for my next challenge as long as this is in Web development. I have recently completed a hands-on Javascript and React front end development 12-week course.

It is important to me that the work I do would create value to the company and would include room for development through the career.

I am ready for completely new challenges as well and for retraining.

I value team effort but am also able to succeed happily in individual tasks.
